Multi-Tiered Framework

PBIS is not a science, but a delivery system for evidence-based practices. (adapted from Wacker & Berg 2002)

PBIS is an Operating System (adopted from C. Bradshaw)

PBIS as a Tiered Framework

Layering Tiers of Supports

All students have access to Tier 1 (universal/primary/core) supports. Additional tiered supports are provided within a continuum by increasing intensity based on student need for Tier 2 (supplemental/targeted) and Tier 3 (intensive/individual) supports.

Schools Implementing PBIS

- Rely on teams to guide implementation
- Implement universal screening
- Use data to identify strengths, uncover needs, and monitor student progress
- Use a continuum of evidence-based practices to support student needs
- Engage students, families, and community members to co-create culturally responsive practices
- Regularly check the effectiveness of their practices
- Develop content expertise through coaching and on-going professional development

PBIS Makes Your Other Practices Better

- A PBIS framework gives you a natural system for selecting, implementing, and sustaining evidence-based practices.
  - Your leadership team commits to meeting regularly, using data, and answering the questions: Did we do what we said we would do and how has that affected students?
  - It's the organization and commitment to on-going improvement that makes schools implementing PBIS up to 3 times more likely to sustain their school-based practices than non-implementing schools
- Each of these outcomes are possible when you implement PBIS where you work and with the students you support.

How do we do this? We need...

- a vision for what we want all of our children to become
- a foundation that provides a safe and orderly environment that is conducive to learning and supports the adults
- to provide access to opportunities to build skills
- data to guide problem-solving
- to understand that well-being is essential for everyone's success!
- a diverse team-based approach
- to be willing to do things differently!

- Lesson is being taught in the location

- Non-examples are provided and are typical of what they should not be doing
- Opportunities to practice
- Expected behavior(s) acknowledged

Behavior Expectations

Lesson Plan

Behavior expectation or rule to be taught: Be Respectful
Location for expectation: Hallway
Rationale- tell why following the rule is important: It is important to be respectful to your peers and adults in school. Using words or actions to harass, tease, or bully another person is inappropriate and can hurt others physically or emotionally. Negative interactions in the school interfere with learning and can cause problems at school and in the community
Provide examples to help students better understand what is and what is not the expected behavior:
Examples of expected behavior. Choose examples of that best fits the general case of what the behavior expectation	Non examples of expected behavior that are: -More similar to examples of expected behavior rather than outrageous nonexamples -Typical of what students do when they are not engaged in the expected behavior
Joe bumped into Mary in the hallway and her books fell to the ground. She was upset because she would be late to class and started to call him names. Joe recognized that he was not paying attention and decided to apologize and help Mary pick up her books. Her teacher gave him a positive referral, and Mary thanked him for resolving the problem with respect.	Joe bumped into Mary in the hallway and her books fell to the ground. She was upset because she would be late to class and called Joe a jerk. Joe got angry and told Mary she was ugly and stupid. He walked away and Mary was late for class. Mary was mad and began to spread untrue rumors about Joe to her friends.
Provide opportunities to practice and build fluency: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>Set aside a few minutes at the beginning of each period to practice the rule.</li><li>As the teacher models, have individual students demonstrate examples and nonexamples of following the rule (role play)</li><li>Tell students about the consequences for following and not following the rules</li></ol>
Acknowledge appropriate/expected behavior: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>When students model the expected behavior during the practice session, the teacher will point out how the behavior demonstrates showing respect to others.</li><li>The teacher will acknowledge respectful behaviors from students throughout the day following the Be Respectful lesson</li></ul>

Sample # 2

Behavior Expectation Lesson Plan

Behavior expectation or rule to be taught: Be Safe
Location for expectation: Cafeteria
Rationale- tell why following the rule is important: It is important to be safe with your peers and adults in school. During lunchtime, there are many students present in the cafeteria and in the entryway to the cafeteria. Running or pushing others in this busy location could lead to someone getting injured.
Provide examples to help students better understand what is and what is not the expected behavior:
Examples of expected behavior. Choose examples of that best fits the general case of what the behavior expectation	Non examples of expected behavior that are: -More similar to examples of expected behavior rather than outrageous nonexamples -Typical of what students do when they are not engaged in the expected behavior
Instructors will demonstrate the expectation the right way (e.g., quiet voices, orderly line, adequate spacing).  Students that are observing will rate the performance by holding up pre-made signs that either say Wrong Way or Right Way	Instructors will demonstrate the incorrect way to line up at the door (e.g., pushing, loud voices, large gaps between some students in line while other students standing in line are much too close to each other).  Students that are observing will rate the performance by holding up pre-made signs that either say Wrong Way or Right Way
Provide opportunities to practice and build fluency:  Students will be split into groups of 20 students. Each group will then be asked to exit the cafeteria and line up the right way. As each group demonstrates the expectation, observing students will rate the performance with cards.
Acknowledge appropriate/expected behavior:  Staff will provide specific verbal praise to students after practice session. After completion of training, each student will get a punch on the card with school-wide settings listed 1) cafeteria, 2) hallways, 3) recess, 4) bus. This card, when all settings have been trained, is worth an ice-cream or another snack item from the cafeteria.

Why Examples & Non-Examples?

- Helps students better understand the parameters of what the expected behavior is and what it is not
- Choose examples that best fit the general case of the behavior expectation
- Choose non-examples that are:
  - Close to being examples rather than outrageous non-examples
  - Typical of what students do when they are not engaged in the expected behavior

When to Teach Expectations

- Teaching Sessions
  - Younger students: 10- 15 minutes sessions
  - Older students: longer teaching sessions
- First week- every day
- First month- every Monday
- Throughout year- first day back from extended vacations
- When new person (student or staff) joins class

Plan for Encouraging Expectations

Guide to Reinforcement Systems

Schools and classrooms can provide positive feedback to students on their behavior by acknowledging appropriate behavior. The technical term for this is called reinforcement and is one feature of Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (PBIS). Effective reinforcement can build a positive student-teacher relationship, enhance school climate, increase intrinsic motivation, and teach appropriate behaviors. Students who don't receive positive feedback are missing opportunities to build important life skills, and many times the students who don't receive positive feedback are the ones who need it the most. There are several strategies for providing reinforcement, such as using praise, school or class-wide token economies, group reinforcement strategies, or other similar acknowledgement systems.

School teams and teachers should periodically look at their reinforcement system to ensure that all student subgroups are being acknowledged equitably. In fact, research has demonstrated that reinforcement system fidelity was related to more equitable discipline practices (Barclay, 2017). Educators can promote equity in their reinforcement system by developing strategies that are culturally relevant to their students by engaging in conversations with students and families to identify meaningful reinforcers and preferred methods of delivery. By engaging with students and families, educators will also learn how students' cultures impact key skills and ensure that cultural, linguistic, and ability-based variations in behaviors are considered when acknowledging student behaviors (e.g., eye-contact as a sign of respect). The PBIS Culturally Responsiveness Field Guide provides more information on building culturally responsive acknowledgement systems.

Additionally, positive feedback is effective when matched or aligned with what is expected at the school (e.g., school-wide expectations), provided immediately after the desired behavior is observed, and available for all students. If a reinforcer (e.g., a ticket) is provided with positive feedback, be clear how the student(s) earned the reinforcement and how to exchange for back-up reinforcement

(if appropriate). Acknowledge appropriate behaviors frequently, unexpectedly, and across multiple settings for it to be most effective (Nese & McIntosh, 2016).

The opposite of reinforcement is punishment. Punishment includes the removal of earned incentives, privileges, or any desirable activity/item. Punishment is meant to decrease unwanted behaviors. Therefore, when developing a system to teach and acknowledge appropriate social-emotional-behavioral skills, punishment is not recommended.

In the following pages, various samples of the different types of reinforcement are provided and cross-walked with areas of effectiveness. You'll notice that many of these strategies have parts of an effective reinforcement system but would likely improve with some minor adjustments. Others may need more significant changes to increase effectiveness. After each table of feedback, you will see things to consider/suggestions for improvement that reflect either missing elements, ways to adapt, or additional ways to increase effectiveness. You are encouraged to use these criteria when reflecting on the reinforcement systems being used within your school and/or classroom to increase their effectiveness (see page 24).

IN SUMMARY, EFFECTIVE REINFORCEMENT SYSTEMS ADDRESS THE FOLLOWING 5 AREAS:

- ✓ Matched with school-wide expectation
- ✓ Awarded following desired behavior
- ✓ Available to all students
- ✓ Criteria for earning is explicit
- ✓ Exchange for back-up reinforcement is identified (i.e., what's the value)

Correct Behavioral Errors (Continuum of Consequences)

Purpose of Negative Consequences

- Do not expect negative consequences to change behavior patterns.
- Teaching changes behavior.
- Negative consequences prevent escalation of problem behaviors.
- Prevent/minimize reward for problem behaviors.

General Guidelines for Handling Problem Behaviors

- Proactively teach expectations and rules
- Ensure that there is a greater ratio of positive to negative interactions (e.g., 5:1)
- Provide hierarchy for rule violations
- Preplan and post consequences
- Explain and regularly review consequences for rule violation
- Consistently deliver consequences in a timely manner
- Link management of problem behavior back to the behavior expectations

MTSS Framework in Classrooms

Moving Towards Advanced Tiers

Establishes system for communicating progress to students, staff and families

Continuously monitors implementation fidelity and student response to intervention

Matches the needs of each student at-risk and provides function-based support

Uses pre-determined decision rules for (1) selecting and prioritizing at-risk students, (2) making intervention changes, and (3) increasing/decreasing levels of support

Emphasizes collaborative teaming with ongoing data-based problem-solving

Builds on the Tier 1 support system and aligns with the school-wide expectations

Tier 2 Supports

- Shorter program/intervention duration
- Match to focus of student need
- Small group instruction/intervention
- Grouping students with similar needs
- Moderate acute difficulties for academic

Targeted practices are designed for groups of students who need more structure, feedback, instruction and support than Tier 1 alone

Tier 2 Supports

- Students needing Tier 2 supports may not have had opportunities to learn the expected social norms of schools or they may bring learning histories of problem behavior that require more targeted supports
- Provided in smaller groups, more frequently and regularly, or with more practice and feedback that supplement the universal tier 1 supports.
- Tier 2 supports are intended to be efficient (e.g., similar across students, quickly accessed), matched to the students' needs, and embedded within a data collection system that allows for continuous assessment of fidelity and outcome analysis used for local problem-solving

Enhanced Skills

For students that do not have specific social skills because they never learned or because of poor modeling

- Teaching students' prosocial skills for interacting with others
  - Teaching the conditions under which the skills should occur
- Teaching behaviors that can replace problem behavior

Enhanced Motivation

For students that do have the specific social skills but are not motivated to use the skills appropriately

- Reminding students to use the skills (prompting)
- Acknowledging (rewarding) students for using the skills appropriately

Enhanced School Connection

For students that do have social connections to others in the school

- Identifying caring adult(s) who will reach out to student for positive social interaction
- Identifying caring student peers who will reach out to the student to increase positive social interaction

Variations of Tier 2 Supports

Improving Skills

- Skill development
  - Academic skills related to reading developmental progression,
  - Social skills
  - Emotional coping skills

Improving Motivation

- Mentoring strategies (CICO, check and connect)
- Antecedent strategies (using choice, increasing opportunities to respond, checklists, graphic organizers)
- Consequence strategies (differential reinforcement)

Tier 3 Supports

- Individualized instruction
- Based on diagnostic assessment
- For chronic problems

What are Tier 3 Supports?

At most schools, there are 1-5% of students for whom Tier 1 and Tier 2 supports have not connected. At Tier 3, these students receive more intensive, individualized support to improve their behavioral and academic outcomes. Tier 3 strategies work for students with developmental disabilities, autism, emotional and behavioral disorders, and students with no diagnostic label at all.

Find Patterns Within Student Behavior

“If we can identify the conditions under which problem behavior is likely to occur (triggering antecedents and maintaining consequences), we can arrange environments in ways that reduce occurrences of problem behavior and teach and encourage positive behaviors that can replace problem behaviors.”

(Sugai et al., 2000)

Reasons People Commonly Misbehave

- ____ (s) do not know the expectations
- ____ (s) do not know how to exhibit the expected behavior
- ____ (s) is/are unaware they engaged in the misbehavior

Tier 1

- Misbehavior provides ____ with a desired outcome:
  - Getting something: attention or item/activity
  - Escaping something: attention or item/activity

Positive Behavioral
Interventions & Supports

All Behavior Serves a Purpose (Function)

Identify trends in ODRs or Minors: when/what happens after the behavior occurs?

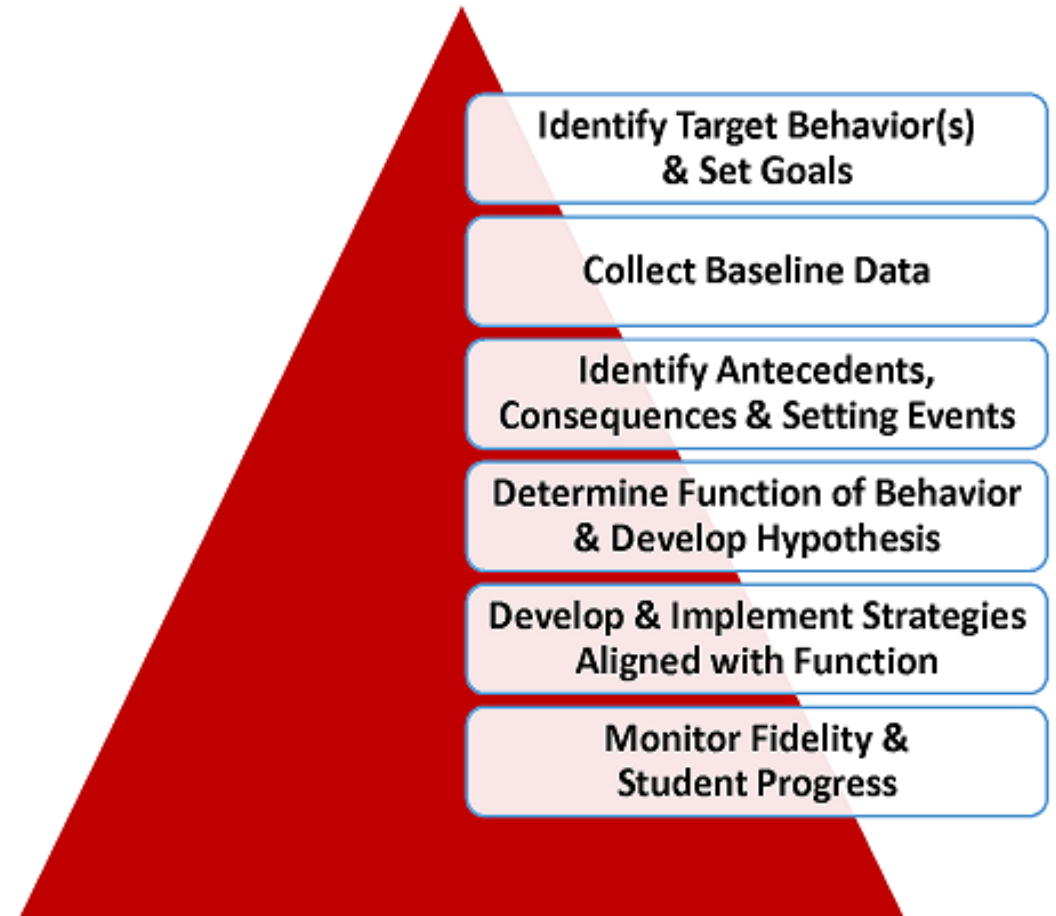

Brief methods to identify the function of behavior are preventative and helpful to match the intervention to each students' needs without engaging in a full Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA)

Functional Behavior Assessment

A systematic process for developing statements about factors that:

- Contribute to occurrence & maintenance of problem behavior
- More importantly, serve as basis for developing proactive comprehensive behavior support plans

Tier 3 FBA/BIP Process

Gather Information

- Interviews
  - Teacher(s)
  - Other Staff
  - Family
  - Community Partners
- Academic Data
  - Grades
  - Assignment completion
  - Test scores
  - Progress monitoring data
- Direct Observation (of the behavior and environmental variables)
  - In situations/settings when the problem behavior is likely to occur
  - In situations/settings when the problem behavior is unlikely to occur

Designing Effective Behavior Support Plans...

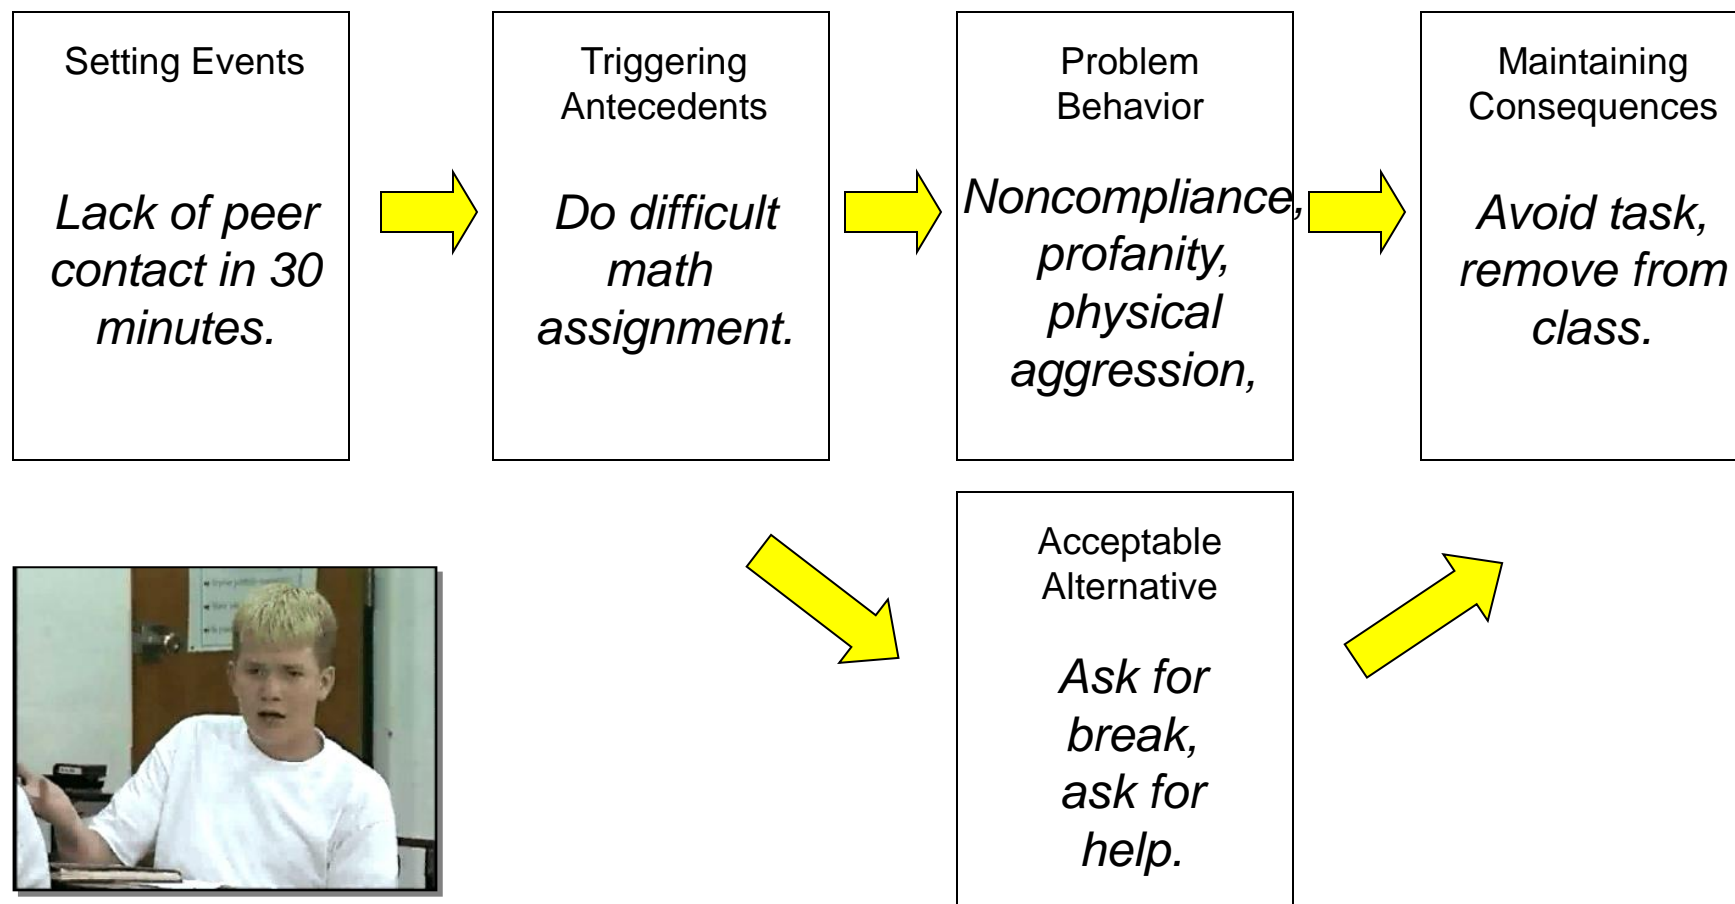

- Behavior support is the redesign of environments, NOT the redesign of the individual.
“Make the environment effective for this kid.”
- Positive Behavior Support plans define changes in the behavior of those who will implement the plan.
“Behavior Support Plans describe what WE will do differently”

In An Effective Environment...

- Problem behaviors are irrelevant when
  - Child doesn't need to escape anymore
  - Child has access to positive events more commonly
- Problem behaviors are inefficient when
  - Alternative behavior is available
  - Alternative behavior is taught
- Problem behaviors are ineffective when
  - Problem behavior NO LONGER works- it does not get the child what they want to obtain or what they want to avoid.

A Systems Approach

Theory of Action

If

The State and/or National Center provide districts with the supports to develop local capacity to invest in systems to sustain and scale PBIS frameworks

And

Districts provide implementation supports that involve professional development, policy aligned with practice, allocation of resources and materials, and provide access to data to inform action

And

Research informed practices are adopted that are matched to student need and context of the educational setting

And

Educators implement the effective practices correctly and consistently

Then

Students will demonstrate meaningful outcomes

Fidelity and Sustainability

Fidelity is the extent to which a program, intervention, framework, or practice, “as conceptualized in a theoretical model or manual, is implemented as intended”

(Schulte, Easton, & Parker, 2009, p. 460)

Sustainability is the durable implementation of a practice at a level of fidelity that continues to produce valued outcomes. It is important to sustain fidelity to ensure that students have continued access to evidence-based practices.

(McIntosh et al., 2009)

Why is fidelity important?

(Fidelity contributes to meaningful outcomes)

- “A poorly implemented program can lead to failure as easily as a poorly designed one.” (Mihalic, Irwin, Fagan, Ballard & Elliott, 2004)
- Lack of implementation fidelity might result in a practice or program being less effective, less efficient, or producing less-predictable responses. (Grow et al., 2009; Wilder, Atwell, & Wine, 2006; Noell, Gresham, & Gansle, 2002)
- When programs implemented with fidelity are compared to programs not implemented with fidelity, the difference in effectiveness is profound. Those implemented with fidelity yield average effect sizes that are two to three times higher. (Durlak & DuPre, 2008)

Almost is Not Enough

- Initial findings indicate that almost at fidelity is not enough!
- Data show little difference between schools that are not implementing and those that are almost at fidelity
- Fidelity appears to be a threshold, not a continuum

Swain-Bradway & Freeman (2015)

Myth

Fidelity of Implementation

adapted from P. Strain (2016)

Reality

Focus on Implementing with Fidelity

Average Change in Major Discipline Referrals Over One Year

District Example (13 primary schools)

Methods for Measuring Fidelity

“the degree to which an intervention is implemented as planned” (Gresham et al., 1993)

- Self report with discussion
  - Show of fingers 1- 5 did we do what we said we would
- Self report on tool
  - Tiered Fidelity Inventory
  - Checklist
- Permanent product
- Observation
  - Coaching feedback

Measuring implementation fidelity at systems level or at student supports level

Average Time to Adequate PBIS Tier 1 Implementation Following Initial Training

Implementation takes longer for:

- City schools
- Title I schools
- Secondary schools

Launching Tier 2 and 3 PBIS Systems

**Delays in launching advanced systems should not result in delaying more intensive supports for students*

Invest in Professional Development

Training

- Specific sessions with formal activities designed for skill development

Coaching

- Ensuring transfer from training to practice
- On-site skill development, enhancing the skills through prompting and reinforcement

Technical Assistance (content expertise)

- An expert with specific technical/content knowledge provides information to address an identified need with customized solutions.

Involves prioritizing time, personnel (providers and receivers), materials, evaluation

Matching Support to Implementation Need

Educators' skillset and supportive systems

		Not in Place or Just Emerging	Established
Disruptiveness of context	Elevated	High Level Intensity of Supports	Mid-level Intensity of Supports
	Stable	Mid-level Intensity of Supports	Low Level Intensity of Supports

Curtailing “Project Mentality”

- A common tendency is for those involved in the transformation process to think about their work only as a temporary project.
- This mind set often leads to a general view that the work doesn't warrant serious engagement.
- Too many promising innovations disappear when project funding ends.

Adelman & Taylor (2007)

SUMMARY

- Keep a strong team.
- Use your fidelity of implementation data to improve your systems.
- Use your school discipline data.
